

November 13, 2013

IMMEDIATE ATTENTION IS REQUIRED

This information was disseminated at the September 27 Instructor's Seminar

On October 2, 2013, the Real Estate Commission voted and unanimously agreed that the 30-hour Principles and Practices course which is currently accepted toward the 60 hour course requirement for broker or salesperson pre-licensing will no longer be accepted, effective January 1, 2014.

Effective January 1, 2014, the only acceptable Principles and Practices of Real Estate course completion certificate for licensing application will be that of an approved 60-hour course.

Therefore, any individual applying for a salesperson's or broker's license on or after 1/1/2014, who previously took a 30-hour Principles and Practices of Real Estate course, will need to complete a brand new P&P course consisting of 60 hours prior to submitting an application.

All currently approved 30-hour P&P courses should no longer be offered, as the Department will adjust those course expiration dates to 12/31/13.